Draw Attention of Tax GroupBy CHARLES MOLONY
For James Marlow

Washington, Feb. 9 — (P) — The government collects less tax money from large fortunes which are given away than it does from fortunes which are inherited.

So a man with a lot of money can save his heirs tax payments by giving them the money before he dies.

The Truman administration wants to make it cost about the same in taxes, no matter which way you do it.

It also wants to break up a system by which taxes on large estates are saved for a generation or two by setting up "trusts" to pass the estates along.

That's what is behind the administration's new estate and gift tax proposal — that and the desire to get an extra $400,000,000 in taxes out of the transfers of wealth.

Under the trust system, a man may leave his estate "in trust" to his wife for her life (which means she gets the income while she lives) and then have the estate divided among their children.

Or he can stretch it out another generation — by leaving the property "in trust" to the wife and then the children for their respective lifetimes, with division among grandchildren after that.

Outright transfers of estates are taxed each time the property passes from one person to another. But property in trust is not taxed at the death of persons getting lifetime income.

Using either the gift or trust method to avoid taxes is as legal under present law as taking income tax exemption for your wife or child.

But President Truman and Secretary of the Treasury Snyder argue it's unfair, throwing a heavy share of the overall tax burden on other taxpayers. They put it this way:

The estate tax reaches only about one of each 100 adults who die, the same proportion as the years ago, while the income tax hits 40 per cent of all people over 14-years-old — about four times the proportion ten years ago.

The effective rates of taxes have increased sharply on incomes of all sizes, but those on estates have been reduced for married persons, Mr. Snyder said.

"The tax on an income of $10,000 has risen from four per cent to 18 per cent. Tax on an estate of $50,000 has fallen from 11 per cent to four per cent."

The estate tax hits few persons because any estate is tax-exempt on the first $40,000 — or $120,000 if that money passes from husband to wife or wife to husband.

Estate tax rates amounts left after exemptions range now from 3 per cent up to 77 per cent when there is $10,000,000 more left after exemptions.

People having that much money or property can save taxes by giving at least part of it away before their death because the flat rates are 25 per cent less, and there are additional exemptions.

Indeed, anyone may give away $30,000 over his lifetime plus $3,000 a year per person to any number of persons, without having to pay gift tax on it. For a married couple, the exemption figures double to $60,000 and $6,000.

change all this to a new system—a single tax on transfers of wealth, so the same exemptions and tax rates would apply to all property passed during life or at death, by trust or otherwise.

It proposes a single exemption of $45,000, with up to $15,000 available for gifts during life, the rest to apply on the estate left at death.

The new rates on amounts left after exemptions would start at 10 per cent and reach a top of 77 per cent at $3,000,000, whereas the present top 77 per cent rate begins at $10,000,000.

Opponents of the administration proposal contend men will quit working hard and saving to build up fortunes for their children if taxes eat more heavily into what they leave behind them.

Truman Again
to Use GOP Record

Washington, Feb. 10 — (P) — President Truman apparently intends to bear down again this election year on the Republicans' lawmaking record — not what they say.

Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday he thinks the Republicans' record speaks better for itself than any platform they can write.

Strangely enough, there were Republicans who agreed with him.

A reporter told Mr. Truman a statement of principles issued by the Republicans this week had picked "liberty vs. socialism" as the chief issue for their campaign to gain control of congress in the November voting.

Which was the President for? The newsman asked he had read the GOP platform but didn't understand it, adding that it's the Republicans' record that will tell the story to the voters in this year's congressional elections.

In his 1948 campaign for the presidency, Mr. Truman made a great point of what he called the bad record of the Republican dominated 80th congress.

Mr. Truman's 1950 statement, that it is the record which counts, found agreement among some Republicans, particularly those dis-

QUICKSAND — This house at Brecksville, Ohio, rested precariously on the edge of a huge crater after a freakish landslide wiped out 500 feet of road-bed, ruined a State Highway Dept. building and buckled Baltimore and Ohio railway tracks. DOROTHY DIX

Wet Blanket

Dear Miss Dix: I have a wife and three children. My salary is very small, and I am very desirous of supplementing it by selling something in my hours off, but everytime I start out my wife discourages me and of course, if I don't have her to believe in me I lost heart. Yet she goes right on complaining about the lack of money and doesn't seem to understand that all I am working for is her and the children.

DISCOURAGED

Answer: Poor chap! You have my earnest sympathy, for if there is one wife who is worse than another it is the human wet blanket who takes all the starch out of her husband's every plan and aspiration and reduces him to a state of limps in which he is incapable of even making an effort to do anything worth while.

Don't Realize Harm

It is a strange thing that the wives who belittle their husbands, and whose favorite indoor sport seems to be puncturing a man's ego until his last shred of self-confidence is gone, have so little sense of the wrong they do. Strange that they do not realize that they are slaying in their husbands the power to succeed and are literally bringing down on their heads the misfortunes they dread.

For a man can only do as much as he thinks he can do. Every doubt thrown on his ability to achieve weakens him just that much. Put into his mind the thought that he is not as strong or as clever as other men, that he lacks some quality they have, make his distrust himself, and you have put on him a handicap that will make him lose out in the race. Many a man is a failure just because his wife has made him think of himself as a failure.

Great is the power of suggestion. As long as a man's wife believes in him he will put forth the best that is in him to try to deserve it, but when she has no faith in him he has no faith in himself and he simply slumps. He has nothing to live up to.

The wife who takes the heart satisfied with their party's statement.

Senator Ives (R-NY), who voted against the declaration, told a reporter that he, too, believes the Republicans must stand on what they do in congress and not on any promises they make in a statement of principles.

"However, I don't agree with the President if he is belittling the danger to the country of the administration's present drift toward socialism," Ives said.

out of her husband does a cruel thing to him. And she does a disastrous thing to herself. She kills the goose that lays the golden eggs.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a young man, married, and with a darling baby. Our home should be a happy one, but it is miserable because my wife's only aim is to go from one party to another. She is discontented, hates housework and the care of the baby. When I come home from work I have to clean up the house, do all the cooking and the baby's washing, as I cannot afford a servant on my salary. Yet I make enough to live comfortably on if only my wife, who is a big strong, healthy young woman, would do her part. Can you help me to solve my problem?

Answer: No When a woman is lazy and pleasure-mad, nothing short of a miracle will change her and have no magic by which I can work such big medicine as you require.

What to do with that kind of wife is a problem that is hard to solve. Certainly a man does not help matters by meekly putting up with it and doing the cleaning and washing and cooking that she should do. My own idea is that if the husband would stage a rebellion, and not only tell his wife but make her realize he meant it, that unless she did her work satisfactorily she was going to lose her job as wife, just as she would lose it as a stenographer or a saleswoman unless she gave satisfaction, she would brace up and do better.

Failure to support is a ground for a divorce for women. Failure to be good housekeepers should be an equal ground for divorce for men, and if women knew this, a lot of them will take to sweeping under the bed and spending more time over the cook-stove and less over the bridge table.

Dear Dorothy Dix: For two years I have gone with one boy regularly. We are both only 19. Only the fact that we are so young and our income is insufficient has kept us single. The matter that worries me is our common interests. Aside from planning our future home and family together we have nothing in common. Do you think our marriage will succeed?

L. K.

Answer: You have studied biology at school. What have you got out of it if it hasn't taught you that it is merely sex attraction that has drawn you and this boy

It moved her a step nearer marriage with Italian Film Director Roberto Rossellini.

The decree was granted late yesterday afternoon, on the grounds of mental cruelty, non-support and incompatibility.

One of Miss Bergman's attorneys, Arturo Gomez-Trevino, said he would cable notice of the contested divorce to the Swedish actress and that the marriage would probably take place tomorrow. But in Rome — where Miss Bergman's son "Roberto" was born eight days ago — Rossellini's attorney said cabled notification was not enough. The lawyer, Gino Sotis, said a copy of the decree would have to be forwarded to Rome before the couple can be married.

Rossellini's romance with Miss Bergman bloomed on the volcanic island of "Stromboli," site and name of a motion picture in which he directed her last year. She has said they would be married as soon as the decree was granted.

The romance between the two has blown a storm of protest over showing of "Stromboli" in the United States.

There was silence from all principals on the granting of the decree, handed down officially at 5:15 p. m. (MST) yesterday.

A secretary refused to awaken Miss Bergman and Rossellini at the swank Italian clinic where the child was born. Rossellini has been staying at the clinic since the birth.

Lindstrom maintained the "no comment" attitude he has kept throughout the love affair.

program, be stricken from the bill.

The vote in the 13-man committee had reached 6 to 6, it was learned, when Bricker withdrew the motion and agreed to go along on postponing action until Feb. 23.

Only Senator Frear (D-De) had not voted on the Bricker proposal when it was withdrawn. An aide of Frear said later that the senator has not decided how he will vote on the issue when it comes up again, as it almost certainly will.

The new surge of opposition to the cooperative housing program took its backers by surprise. Only three days ago the program was approved, 6 to 1, by a subcommittee.

Senator Maybank (D-SC), chairman of the full committee, said some members who voted for a two-week postponement did so because they are leaving town for speeches and did not want to take any hasty action on the measure.

The close vote on the Bricker motion to junk the cooperative housing program, however, seemed to indicate which way the wind is blowing.

Bricker told a reporter "there is no question the program is decidedly inflationary." He called the plan for loans to cooperatives "a cheap money scheme which would provide special favor for a special group."

Acheson's Stand That Russia
Will Only Heed to Might Is Far Cry From FDR's PolicyBy DeWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Secretary of State Acheson's declaration which bases America's anti-communist strategy squarely on a policy of power is official recognition at long last of a situation which has existed since the birth of Communist rule in Russia.

In making this startling announcement Mr. Acheson told a press conference that four years of experience "have brought us the realization" that progress towards world peace, simply by making agreements with the Russians, is impossible.

It's interesting to note that this is a sharp deviation from the views held by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, a fact disclosed by publication of excerpts from his news conferences during the last four years of his life. Many times he expressed the belief that Russia would cooperate for peace.

And of course there were many other statesmen who held similar ideas.

True, hopes for cooperation were given a fillip when the Red Comintern, or general staff for world revolution, was "dissolved" in 1943 as a concession to the democracies. However, the revival of the Comintern in the shape of the "Cominform" in 1947 made it clear that bolshevism was doing business at the old stand.

The fact that communism will respond only to strength was established way back in 1919 when Lenin founded the Comintern. This was flat and fair notice that communism not only was going to rule in Russia but was aiming to spread abroad by force if necessary.

And each succeeding year has emphasized that only an insurmountable barrier of military power apparently could prevent war from growing out of the situation.

So peace is maintained by a display of strength. Well and good, but that's only half the problem. Force isn't an ideological answer to communism. It must be combined with the virtues of democracy.

Communism is a dynamic ideology. That doesn't mean it's a good ideology, but its methods of organization are powerful and appeal to the imagination of many people of an adventurous or uneasy mind. Hitler's nazism also was a dynamic ideology—a devilish one, of course, but still one which took a powerful hold on the imaginations of many people.

Americans feel that the democracy to which they subscribe is the supreme ideal. But no matter how great an ideology is, it still has to be implemented to give it full strength. An auto is a wonderful constructed piece of machinery, but it won't run unless somebody starts and steers it.

Democracy is rather a loose term for a collection of supreme ideas. Its weakness, if any, may be in lack of coordination and organization.

The great strength of commu-

Westerling began his campaign to set up an Islamic state by marching on the west Java town of Bandung. Observers predict all-out war between the new Indonesia government and the rebels.

nism strikes us as lying largely in its methods of intensive organization. One outstanding example of this lies in the systematic organization of children and youth in various movements designed to catch the fancy of the young. That also was one of Hitler's supreme achievements.

This is recognition of the simple fact that the young folk of today are the politically conscious citizens of tomorrow.

Of course, communism, nazism and fascism all are dictatorships. Regime of the public makes ideological coordination easier. Democracy has no truck with such things.

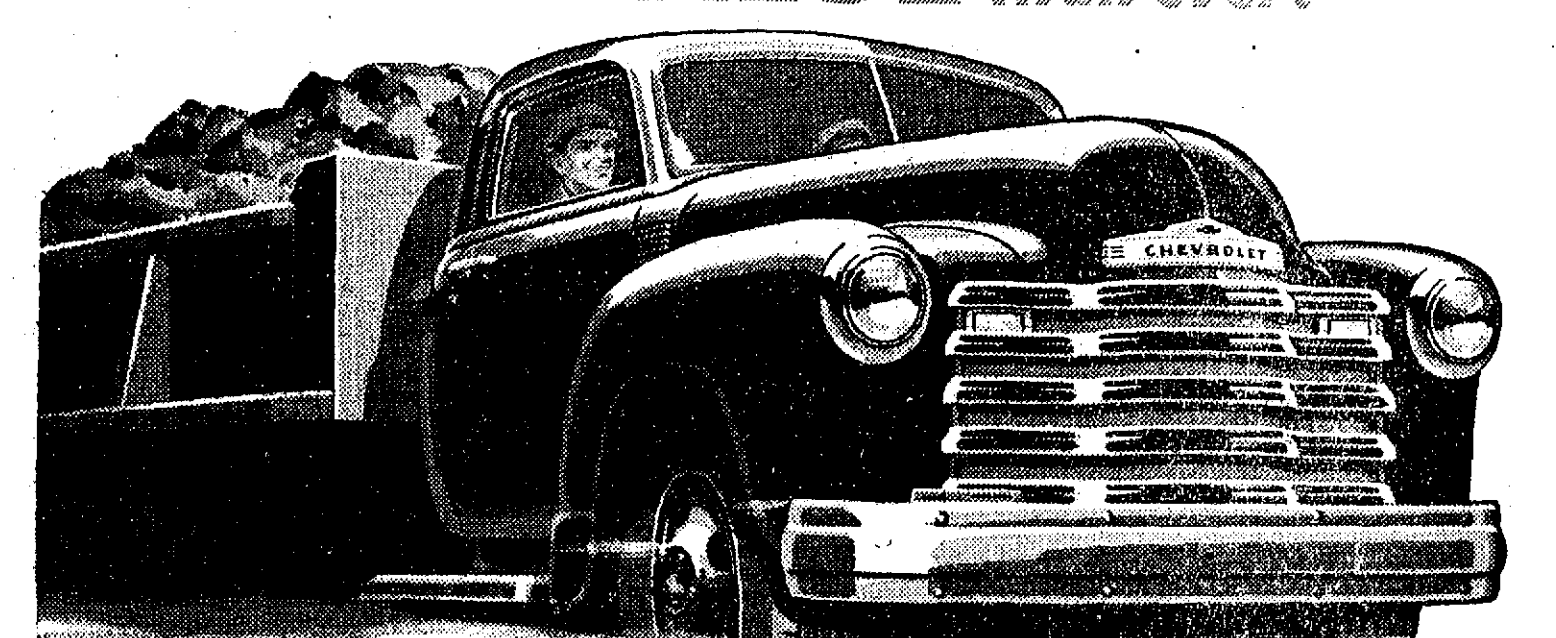

Still, there are plenty of legitimate ways in which democracy can tighten up its organization and coordination. To many observers the youth movements are among the greatest assets a nation can have. If the other fellows can interest the young people, so can democracy.

Seek New Use for Former Cotton Land

Little Rock, Feb. 8 —(AP)—Arkansas agricultural leaders met today to study what can be done with acreage lost to production through reduction in rice and cotton allotments.

The group of more than 20 met at invitation of Governor McMath, Dr. Lewis W. Jones, University of Arkansas president, presided.

Speakers repeatedly stressed that the problem is a two-sided one: replacement of acreage and absorption of tenant farm families who will no longer be needed for cotton and rice farming.

They said also that the situation has its immediate and long range angles.

Aubrey Gates, associate director of the agricultural extension service, outlined several definite recommendations which he said might aid.

He urged that cash crops such as cotton, rice, vegetables and livestock be produced as economically as possible. He added that in the attempt at diversification farmers should not lose sight of the fact that cash crops are still necessary.

One important point where Arkansas might develop, Gates said, is production of feed for livestock. He and others reported that Arkansas now is importing $35,000,000 worth of feed annually, but Gates added that Arkansas livestock are not being fed as good as they should. He recommended that the livestock industry should be increased in the state, gradually but advised against "everyone plunging" into livestock production without adequate preparation.

Other phases of his recommendation program for diversification included: growing of seeds, particularly legumes; small grain and pasture crops, first for home use and secondly for export.

Gates agreed with other speakers that soil fertility must be built up by crop rotation, green manure, and overdiversification. A farm with a large source of income, however, is large.

Has But One Good Eye, and Hurts It

Little Rock, Feb. 8 —(AP)—McGuire, 30, who suffered an injury to his one eye here last night.

At Arkansas Baptist hospital a physician said the injury is serious but that only time can determine whether the eye will be permanently damaged.

McGuire, widely known in the Southwest where he is billed as junior heavyweight champion, lost his other eye in childhood. Despite that handicap, he became a wrestling star at Oklahoma and M., and has been a top professional wrestler for years.

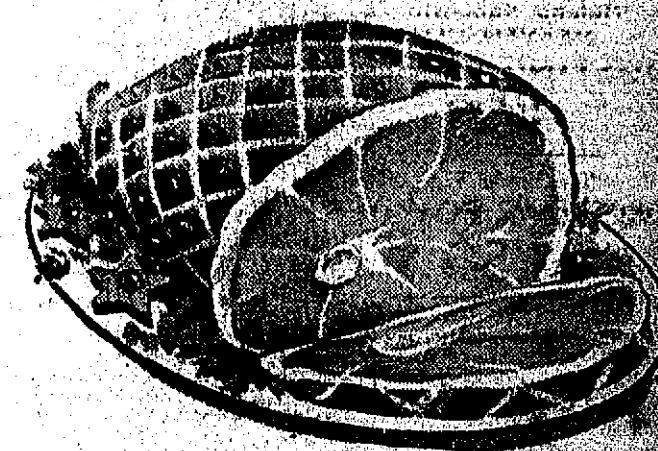

The hospital said it was not known when he was struck. His head struck the shield, breaking his glasses, and a piece of glass cut his eye.

One of the world's largest fights is the $200,000 fight between McGuire and a wrestler from Nevada.

Fifty years ago only 348,000 people worked for the federal government. Now the figure is 2,100,000.

Romantic Aspect of Famous Feud Families Made Into Movie

'Feud' Film Opens Sunday at Saenger

The romantic aspect of America's most famous family feud, that waged for generations between the Hatfields and McCoys, provides the theme for Samuel Goldwyn's new motion picture "Roseanna McCoy." The film is based on the novel of the same name by Albert Hamann, and is adapted to the screen by John Collier, the Goldwyn version of the story is the screen's first attempt to treat seriously this dramatic chapter of our national history without the usual hillbilly distortions.

To play the heroine, Roseanna, the producer selected young Joan Evans, the daughter of New York playwright Dale Eunson and writer Katherine Albert Young. Joan's previous dramatic experience was limited to a small part in her father's play, "Guest in the House," when she was eight years old. But after a series of convincing screen tests, Goldwyn not only gave her the starring role but signed her to a long-term contract. John Hatfield, whose love for Roseanna precipitated the celebrated feud, is played by Farley Granger. Other principals are Charles Bickford, Raymond Massey, Richard Basehart and the little girl who made such a triumph in the Goldwyn production, "Enchantment"—Gigi Perreau. Irving Reis, who directed "Enchantment," also directed "Roseanna McCoy."

The film opens Sunday for a 3-days at the Saenger in Hope.

School Lunch Programs Threatened

Little Rock, Feb. 9 —(AP)—Closing of hot lunch programs in 36 schools in Arkansas was threatened today.

Officials of the state education department said that sub-standard sanitary conditions at the schools may force the cancelling of funds needed to carry on the hot lunch program.

Should the funds be withheld, the practice of serving hot lunches to school children, would have to be discontinued.

Education Commissioner A. B. Bonds plans to meet with directors of the schools next week in hopes of correcting the situations.

At least 35 schools in 21 counties have discontinued hot lunch programs since September, 1949, because of unsanitary conditions.

Miss Ruth Powell, supervisor of the department's school lunch program, said the state health department had reported 50 schools with unsatisfactory sanitation, but 15 schools had corrected the condition.

The schools in which the program now is threatened are in: Pulaski, Crawford, Franklin, Logan, Union, Sevier, Fulton, Crawford, Montgomery, Lincoln, Perry, Arkansas, Calhoun, Conway, Independence, Jackson, Lonoke, Ouachita, Sevier, Monroe and Chicot.

Most of the schools are in rural areas and are classified in the low income group.

Small Group Rewriting Air Tactics

Elgin Air Force Base, Fla., Feb. 9 —(AP)—A little-known Elgin group today is rewriting air force tactics in terms of supersonic speeds and earthshaking new weapons.

The air proving ground's 3200th proof test group's work is shrouded in secrecy, and carried out on remote ranges of this northwest Florida military reservation.

It takes the planes and guns and bombs designed for America's first line air combat units, and finds out exactly what they will do. Then it decides now they can be best employed.

The veteran "200th isn't guided by rule books. It writes them. It took a 600-mile an hour jet fighter built for high altitude interception, and proved it was made to order for an infantry support weapon.

So now the F-84 Thunderjet, packing 32 six-inch rockets, is a star of the postwar air force armory. It can literally pulverize pillboxes and tanks in front of advancing infantrymen.

The 3200th is testing the air the Book of Books". Mrs. Floyd Hamm assisted Mrs. Cummings in giving the program on "We the Illiterate."

A delectable dessert course was served by the hostess to members Mrs. Shell, Mrs. Hamm, Mrs. Cummings, Mrs. Hunter Scott, Mrs. Floyd Wren, Mrs. Robert Peachey, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Arthur Turner, Mrs. Imon Gee, Mrs. J. W. Tetter, and Mrs. J. B. Hesterly, president of the W. S. C. S.

Mrs. Wynn Entertains Circle 4 of WSCS. The W. S. C. S. of the First Methodist church was entertained by Mrs. C. A. Wynn at her home on Monday afternoon.

The circle chairman, Mrs. H. H. McKenize, opened the meeting with prayer and presided over the business meeting. The devotionals "Opening the Book of Books" was given by Mrs. H. L. Eaton. The program was presented by Mrs. E. Adams, Mrs. J. I. McClurkin of Morrilton was a guest and brought a short message.

The hostess served a dainty dessert course during the social hour.

Doctors Fight to Save Eye of Wrestler

Little Rock, Feb. 10 —(AP)—Doctors still are uncertain what progress they are making in the fight to save wrestler Leroy McGuirk's one good eye.

The eyeball and eyelid were severely lacerated by broken glass in a freak automobile accident here Monday night. Surgery was necessary Tuesday in an effort to repair the damage.

The wrestler's doctor said this morning that his condition is unchanged and that it will be some time before effect of the injury can be determined.

McGuirk, who lost one eye in childhood, was a wrestling star at Oklahoma A. and M. and has been a successful professional grappler for a number of years.

Gulf Coast May Oust Gambling

Biloxi, Miss., Feb. 9 —(AP)—Many citizens with an eye on tourists' dollars and servicemen's spending don't like it, but there's a vigorous effort being made to clean out gambling along a lush 250-mile strip of the Gulf coast.

The stretch of seashore involved is between Biloxi, Miss., and Panama City, Fla., and includes the Alabama coast. It's studded with swanky resort hotels and high-payroll military bases.

Ministerial groups and law enforcement officers have made their sting felt in a string of unrelated but concerted drives. And the bright-colored slot machines, gaudy dice tables, and two-card monte games are taking to cover.

Those residents who earn their living off the spending of tourists, soldiers, airmen and sailors aren't at all happy.

This sort of thing, they say, will ruin the section's economy by sending the tourists away and the soldiers will begin spending their payday weekends elsewhere, say in nearby New Orleans.

At a mass meeting of businessmen in Biloxi, one citizen said: "If we don't have slot machines, they'll be referring to this section as the Ghost Coast" instead of the Gold Coast."

Leading military establishments in the area are Keesler field at Biloxi, the naval air station at Pensacola, Fla., and Elgin Air Force base, Fla. Between them they have payrolls aggregating more than $75,000 annually. Ministerial groups contend slot machines get a good part of that.

The drive against open gambling began more than a year ago at Pensacola and Panama City. Almost 100 gambling indictments were returned by a grand jury and heavy fines were levied.

Fifty-four slot machines were seized late last summer in resort areas east of Mobile, Ala.

The drives this year extended to Biloxi and Fort Walton, Fla.

Russia Ahead of U. S. Says Air Expert

Washington, Feb. 9 —(AP)—An American aviation expert said today Russia is ahead of the United States both in aircraft production and in the number of military planes it has in service.

However, said John F. Victory, executive secretary of the national advisory committee for aeronautics (NACA), this country isn't disturbed by that situation because it feels that it has the better planes.

"We think we still have supremacy in the air," he said, "because of the superior performance and military effectiveness of our aircraft."

Victory said in a prepared speech that either the United States nor Russia has a practical force of two most powerful new planes—the mighty B-36 intercontinental bomber and the B-45 jet bomber.

It could throw valuable light on the controversy over ability of the B-36 to carry out successful bombing raids under attack by postwar jet fighters.

To get the answer to that question, B-36 crews flew penetration missions against Eglin, striking day and night without warning. New jet fighters manned by crack air force pilots rose to head them off.

The results remain secret, but they are available to America's top military planners. P. R. E. sum a bly those findings high in the sky above the Gulf Coast will guide strategic use of the B-36.

Every scientific tool useful in measuring the efficiency and stamina of future air force material is available here. Agiant climatic hangar generates sub-zero blizzards in which new equipment is readied for Arctic operations. It also can turn on tropical heat.

Electronic devices and stress measurement machines determine the limitations to tomorrow's planes and weapons before the lives of young men and the safety of America must be staked upon them.

The composite group from which the 3200th grew was born at Maxwell Field, Ala., in 1939. The idea was sponsored by the late Gen. H. H. (Happy) Arnold.

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

COWBOY PHILOSOPHER, and for years America's best-loved comedian, was the late Will Rogers. Here he does his original vaudeville act, a rope trick routine, for his young family in their own private home theater. It was as a rope-throwing cowboy in the Ziegfeld Follies that Will Rogers' fabulous career began. The drawing wisecracks that later made him famous were thrown in to liven up the act when the rope wasn't behaving too well. In the 'Twenties, Will played homespun roles in silent movies, but it wasn't until the talkies and radio broadcasting arrived to do full justice to his slow drawl and his masterfully comic delivery that he really reached the top. The world was stunned on that day in 1935 when it learned Rogers and Wiley Post were killed in Alaskan plane crash.

Anglo-U. S. Lines Clearcut in Indo China

Saigon, Vietnam, Indochina, Feb. 9 —(AP)—Clearcut lines in the struggle to keep Indochina out of military plane of super-sonic speed, U. S. planes can go faster than sound now only when unarmed, he said, adding:

"We see ourselves in the position of a runner in a race who knows he is being hard pressed."

Victory, first employee of the NCA when it was founded in 1915 as the nation's chief agency for basic air research, addressed the Cosmopolitan club.

"The struggle for the survival of civilization is now underway in the research laboratories of our land," he said. "There the outcome of our present campaign to hold communism in check and prevent another world war is being decided."

He said the atomic bomb "is solely an offensive weapon — of no value without a means of delivering it to its target."

End of a Chapter

By Edwin Ruff

"THE STORY: Alice Pine, secretary to writer Muriel Halleck, finds herself in an embarrassing position in regard to Muriel's husband Brent, an artist. Alice surrenders Brent of custody to Rick, his small adopted son. Later Brent surprises her while taking a night swim near the Hallecks' home on Long Island Sound. Brent has a long, serious talk with Alice and partially wins her sympathy at the night when Alice suspected that he was taking a job. Brent had done nothing more than to infer that under other circumstances he might have been fond of Alice."

"I told you," Alice began. "That I'd smash myself up? Well, I told you that was nonsense. Come on!"

They had had one drink and Muriel was pouring another when she said suddenly: "Uh-uh! Here comes a disturbance."

"The disturbance" was, indeed, in the offing. Young Rick, leaving the fat Stella hopelessly behind, cavorted toward them across the lawn.

As he gamboled up, Alice decided that Rick was a scavenger by nature. He rarely went anywhere without returning richly laden with whatever caught his eye.

Today it was seashells, an appreciation of which Alice herself had imparted. Both of Rick's hands overflowed with them. He ceased cavorting at the terrace and, with a certain childish dignity, walked straight toward Alice.

At once she put out a long left arm. "No, darling! Show them to Muriel first."

Alice was looking at Rick. But from one eye-corner she saw Muriel glance up. A little frown

No More Peace Talks With Russia

Washington, Feb. 8 —(AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today ruled out any new overtures to Russia on international control of atomic weapons, including the hydrogen super-bomb.

Acheson also said the United States should avoid what he called self reproach in connection with atomic weapons. He said this might paralyze American action in developing a strong American policy.

The secretary's remarks were made in a news conference discussion of U. S. policy.

Russian undercover activity in the United States was reported at an all-time high by a lawmaker familiar with evidence on the Klaus Fuchs case which FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has been placing before congress.

Hoover, seeking enough funds for at least 300 more G-men, was said to have told a senate appropriations subcommittee there are 540,000 communists and fellow travelers in this country, 54,000 of them card-carrying party members.

He also is understood to have said that Fuchs, the British scientist now under arrest in London for passing atomic secrets to Russia, had many opportunities to carry out his operations here.

Fuchs comes up for trial Friday, charged with two violations of the official secrets act. Officials here say these involve two specific leaks of atomic information to Russia — once here in 1945 and the other in Britain in 1947.

The German-born, 38-year-old scientist came to this country in 1943 as a member of a top British atomic team. He remained in the United States until 1946.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) disclosed last night that he is asking Attorney General McGrath to try to extradite Fuchs from Britain for trial before an American court.

He said such a procedure would provide the "best deterrent" to atomic espionage in the United States.

According to the Franco-Vietnam agreement negotiated last March the French will give Vietnam a measure of independence which does not include complete sovereignty in diplomatic and military affairs. But the Vietnamese say they have been given no official assurance that this agreement is a progressive step toward foreseeable full independence.

One reason for the concession by the French, who have been fighting bitter guerrilla war since 1946 against Ho, is the hope that popular Nationalist support can be attracted away from the Moscow-trained leader. Nationalist sentiment in Indochina runs heavily in Ho's favor, although the majority of the population appears to be still sitting on the fence as to which regime to recognize.

Both Bao Dai and Ho claim authority over the coastal states of Tonkin, Annam and Cochinchina which make up the Vietnam republic.

The United Nations World Health organization has set up an Expert Committee on Plague.

etched Muriel's forehead. Rick was obedient. He crossed to Muriel. "Show Muriel," he said, as if he were getting his orders straight.

Muriel examined the loot. "Why, they're lovely, dear. Wherever did you find so many? Now show them to Alice. Then it's supper and bed for yours, young man."

The bovine Stella had puffed up. "Come on, Ricky," she commanded placidly.

"No," said Rick, disinterestedly rather than rudely. He began to arrange his shells in little heaps in the grass.

Muriel reached for her drink. "That wasn't polite, Rick. Please go with Stella."

RICK looked at her in undecided fashion. But, obviously, he felt committed now to a course of action.

"No," he repeated. And, with a gesture like an unfortunate afterthought, he stamped his foot.

"Alice," Muriel turned to her, "what do you do in a case like this?"

"I—I don't know," Alice felt strangely apprehensive.

Rick stood stubborn and determined. "He was something like Brent—or like Brent might have been when he was four years old. The child's lip moved a little and his eyes filled with tears.

"Neither do I. But I'm afraid it's my responsibility. Rick! Muriel's silvery eyes narrowed. "Stop this nonsense and go with Stella. At once—do you hear?"

She spoke patiently, but the patience was wasted on Rick. Motivated by heaven knew what—it could have been, Alice thought, the limelight and an audience—the child went into a sudden tantrum.

Without warning, he plumped himself down on his stomach, small bare legs thrashing the air. "I won't," he yelled, defiantly. "Stella! Muriel controlled herself. "Does this happen often?"

"No'm," said Stella, with oceanic calm. "Just sometimes. When he's tired, maybe."

"Well, he's overtired now. Take him inside."
